Si quid mea carmina possint!

Remarkable incidents in the memorable Siege, and some very singular Characters peculiar to these bad times, are occasionally displayed throughout the Poem.

The very illiberal abuse, and invidious treatment with which this little tribute inscribed to the Memory of such a GREAT CHARACTER, has been opposed in the publication, may possibly, with the numerous subscribers, the impartial and generous Public, apologize for the unfavourable but unavoidable delay of the Poem.

The impression will be allowed to be in all respects elegant, and when it is considered that he has had from the beginning to contend with an unmanly powerful and unprovoked opposition, who drive him into an unnecessary and unconscionable expense.

Zoilus! thou reaonest well!

For, what are Heroes, Country, Fame, to thee,

Who fatten'st on the garbage of thy spleen,

And blot the Sun with Jaundice!

Both estates hold few of subject superiors.

The proprietor has right to the teneys; and there is an old valuation of the lands of Gosptree.

The title-deeds are in the hands of James Thomson, writer to the signet, who will inform of further particulars.

FOR JAMAICA,

From the London Papers, April 4.

Peterburgh, March 3. The Empress has appointed M. e Moussin-Pouschkin, her late Minister at the Court of London, to reside in the same quality at the Court of London.

Fifteen ships of the line and six frigates are fitting out with the utmost diligence, destined to protect the commerce and navigation of this empire. It appears that her Imperial Majesty will not depart from the resolution she has taken to observe a strict neutrality during the present war.

Lisbon, Feb. 29. The Queen has appointed Don Miguel of Portugal, to be her Ambassador at the Court of Madrid.

Brest, March 18. A detachment of the regiment of Hainault in garrison at Montpellier, is expected here; and the regiment of Foix, Blaivois, and Royal Italian, quartered in Languedoc, have received orders to march the 16th and 17th. These troops are destined to serve on board the grand fleet.

It is assured that an army of 50,000 men is to encamp near this town. The troops are in motion, and great preparations are making on every side.

Paris, March 24. We have received intelligence, that the squadrons under the command of Mess. de Grasse and de Mothe Piquet, have effected a junction.

According to private letters from some officers of the Prothee, it appears she did not strike to the Resolution man of war until she had sixty men killed or wounded, a circumstance which makes Admiral Digby's account of that event, who says he took her without the loss of one man, scarce credible.

They write from Brest of the 17th, that the Royal Louis of 110 guns, is to be launched the 22d; that there remained in the road only the Neptune and Conquerant of 74, with the frigates la Fine of 40, la Surveillante and la Renommee of 30; and the Chevalier de Ternay's squadron is to be composed of the Duc de Bourgogne, of 80 guns; the Neptune of 74; the Eveille, sheathed with copper; the Japon and the Provence of 64 guns each.

We have received advice, that the Count de Vaudreuil, having failed to Chesapeake Bay with a small squadron, to clear it of the corsairs that infest it, had been attacked by Admiral Arbuthnot, whom he, however, obliged to sheer off.

Hague, March 27. When our last letters left Peterburgh, the Prime Minister, Count de Panin, was thought to be at the point of death.

According to private letters from St Eustatia, they had there received letters of good credit from Jamaica, advising that General Dalrymple and Commodore Sir Peter Parker had made themselves masters of Vera-Cruz, situated in the Gulph of Mexico, and taken three Spanish ships, whose cargoes are valued at a million pounds sterling. Hague Gazette.

Cologn, March 27. The recruits destined to complete the troops of the Margrave of Anspach in America; as also those who are to join the corps of Chasseurs and Nassau, arrived in our port the 25th, and next day continued their route to Holland.

Amsterdam, March 27. We learn from Paris, that the French Ministry had just publicly declared, that all the reports which had been current for some time past, respecting an engagement between M. de la Motte Piquet and Admiral Parker, on the 22d of January, and of which many public papers had made mention, were absolutely groundless; and what still adds to the probability of the above report, is the declaration made by the Captain of a Dutch merchant ship, which is arrived from St Eustatia, who says his ship had been visited and searched the 29th of January in those parts, by a squadron of ships under M. de la Motte Piquet, consisting of six sail of the line and two frigates, which appeared to be in a good state.

Hague, March 29. They write from Amsterdam, that, on the 25th instant, a fleet, consisting of above 80 ships, sailed from the Texel, six of which are destined for Curacao, and eleven for St Eustatia.

LONDON.

Extract of a letter from the Hague, March 31.

"We find that the States-General have by their agent, Mr Vandervueren Van Spierings Hock, given the following provisional answer to the English Ambassador's Memorial: "That their High Mightinesses are very desirous to coincide with the wishes of his British Majesty, by giving a positive answer to the Memorial delivered by his Ambassador, but that their High Mightinesses foresee, that from the nature of the government of the Republic, it is impossible to return an answer in three weeks time, as the Memorial must be deliberated upon the in different provinces, and their resolutions waited for. That their High Mightinesses are assured his Majesty would not wish rigorously to keep to the before-mentioned time, that their High Mightinesses might be able to conclude upon an answer in a manner conformable to the constitution of the Republic, in which they had no right to make any alteration, and they promise to accelerate the deliberations, upon that head, as much as possible." It is further said, that the English Ambassador having read this answer, excused himself from accepting of it, on account of the King his master's orders, but said he did not doubt but that the representations which Count Welden has orders to make to his Court, would entirely fulfil the intentions of their High Mightinesses. It is also said, that Sir Joseph Yorke communicated this answer to the States General on the 28th of this month in a conference.

Sir Joseph Yorke's conduct, in refusing to protract the time limited for the Dutch answer to his last memorial of the 21st ult. is universally applauded; whether it originated from himself, or was dictated from hence, it was undoubtedly right; we have had too much of procrastination; the general wish is to know what our worthy allies really intend.

This day the House of Commons met for the further dispatch of public business.

Yesterday some dispatches were brought to Lord Stormont's office from Sir James Harris, his Majesty's Ambassador at the court of Russia.

By letters received yesterday from France, we are informed, that a mutiny had happened at Brest; that one of the old regiments absolutely refused to embark for America; that their commander, and many officers, were killed in the confusion occasioned by it, but the affair was at last quelled, by the whole regiment being decimated and every tenth man executed upon the spot.

A report prevailed yesterday (says another correspondent) that advice had been received of a riot having happened at

Brest, by the regiments of Picardy and Normandy refusing to embark on board the fleet going to America; and that a Lieutenant-Colonel, and several others, had been killed. According to some accounts, these regiments had requested a warmer cloathing to be given them, as they understood they were destined for Newfoundland and Canada; which request not being complied with, occasioned the disturbances.

Advices are received from Holland, that a body of French troops, to the amount of 30,000 men, are on their march along the Flemish coast, where they are going to take up their station; and that this has caused no small alarm in the Dutch dominions.

No advices whatever have been received of Sir Hen. Clinton, which, considering the time, and some probable circumstances, occasions great concern and anxiety.

Government have certain accounts of the safe landing of Clinton and all the troops in Georgia, but the channel by which they received them is not known. St James's Chron.

Saturday it was reported, that the French had evacuated the island of St. Vincent's, on account of the Indians and negroes rising upon them, who had killed upwards of thirty of them, and had plundered them of every thing they could.

Letters from Paris mention, that the Marquis de la Fayette did not take time to go to review his regiment, which is in quarters at Angiers, having received, a few days before his departure, a large packet, by way of Nantz, sealed with the arms of the Congress of the United States of America. The Marquis thought it his duty to send it immediately to Count de Maurepas; but that Minister returned it immediately, unopened, by an extraordinary messenger to the Marquis, that he might have it before he embarked. The Public no sooner heard of this circumstance, but divers conjectures were formed, the most current of which (though probably the least likely) is, that the Minister had been informed of an accommodation of the Americans with England.

An authentic letter from Paris, received by Saturday's mail, says, "The King, in a conference on naval affairs with M. de Sartine, was made acquainted by that Minister, that he may be assured he has taken such measures as must insure 10,000 seamen as soon as they are wanted, but means not to carry them into execution till the pressures of the State require it." M. de Rochambeau is gone to Brest.

The following is extracted from an authentic letter received on Sunday evening from Brest: In the roads are 22 sail of the line, and by the beginning of May we shall have a fleet of upwards of 40 sail, exclusive of those going to America; Spain joins with 18 of the line under Cordova. We are much distressed for cordage, for standing and running rigging; the store-houses in the yard nearly empty, though the officers declare to the contrary. Ship timber for knees and sides are much wanted. Seamen are likewise very scarce."

Last night some dispatches were received from the Leeward-Islands, but no mention of Sir Peter Parker and Commodore Dalrymple having taken La Vera Cruz.

Our situation in the West Indies affords us a pleasing prospect, notwithstanding the croakings and forebodings of the herd of patriots. Mons. de la Motte Piquet is blocked up in Guadaloupe, and consequently it is in our power to prevent a junction between him and the Count de Guichen; so that if our Admiral can but maintain the advantage of situation, the superiority of the French have at present in number of ships, will avail them very little.

Advices from Petersburgh assures us, that a Russian squadron of 19 sail of the line, several frigates, &c. will rendezvous at Spithead by the 25th inst. or as soon as possible, to act in conjunction with the English fleet.

Orders have been lately issued from the office of Ordnance for repairing the forts of North Britain, and a number of engineers have within these few days repaired to Scotland for that purpose.

Letters from India of good authority mention, that General Sir Hector Munro, with the troops that took Pondicherry, was preparing to go upon an expedition against Manilla. They only waited the arrival of Sir Edward Hughes's squadron. Very little doubt was entertained of the success of the expedition, as the Spaniards had not had time to send out re-inforcements. If the expedition succeeded, it is supposed the inhabitants of Manilla would pay dearly for their treachery last war in withholding the stipulated ransom.

Ibid. A plan has been laid before the Lords of the Treasury, for doubling the duties on all goods imported into the Isle of Man, under certain regulations and restrictions, which is now under consideration.

Extract of a letter from Madrid, March 7.

"Mr John Jay, formerly President of the Congress of the United States of America, has landed at Cadiz, but is not yet arrived in this city. In the mean time, Mr Carmichael, late a member of the same Congress, has been here above three weeks. He hath made his appearance at Court, and yesterday he was present in the circle of foreign Ministers, who paid their compliments to the King, on the birth of the infant Don Carlos. This American, who has great merit, joined to the art of pleasing, meets with a distinguished reception every where."

E. D. I. N. B. U. R. G. H.

Extract of a letter from London, April 4.

"This day the House of Commons met, pursuant to their last adjournment; no business, however, of a public nature, came before them. Council were heard on a private inclosure bill, after which the House adjourned.

"On Thursday next the county petitions are to be taken into consideration; the fullest attendance that ever was known is expected on this occasion, as there can be no doubt that both Administration and Opposition will exert every effort in the discussion and decision of a question of no less magnitude than the total change of that system of Government which was planned by our ancestors, and, in conformity to which, the British nation has for so many centuries been regulated."

Mrs Margaret Warrender, widow of Thomas Fairholme, Esq; late merchant in Edinburgh, died at her house in Hope Park on Wednesday last.

On the 31st ult. died at Crawford's dyke, the Rev. Mr. William Richardson, minister of the Seceding Congregation there; very much regretted by his hearers, and all who had the pleasure of being acquainted with him. He was universally beloved and esteemed in the lines of a christian, a minister, and a gentleman. He died in the 36th year of his age, and 8th of his ministry.

Wednesday died, justly lamented by her family and friends, Mrs Elizabeth Aird, wife of Mr. Archibald McGilchrist, town-clerk of Glasgow.

Thursday morning, the High Court of Justice proceeded to the trial of William Calder, corporal in the 80th regiment of foot, or Royal Edinburgh Volunteers; William Donaldson, and Joseph Clark, both soldiers in the 31st regiment of foot, accused of breaking into the shop of George Pirrie merchant at the head of Advocate's Close, Luckenbooths, and stealing from thence a quantity of silk, and other articles, in the night betwixt the 29th and 30th of December last. They were also charged, in the same indictment, with breaking into the shop of Edward Innes, senior, baker, in the night betwixt the 19th and 20th of January last, and stealing from thence a silver watch, four tea-spoons, some half guineas, silver, and halfpence. The Court having found the indictment relevant to infer the pains of law, proceeded to examine witnesses for the prosecutor, in support of the different charges brought against the pannels, which continued till near eight o'clock at night, when Mr. Solicitor General summed up the evidence on the part of his Majesty's Advocate, as did Mr. Andrew Crosbie on the part of William Calder, and Mr. James Grant on that of William Donaldson. Mr. David Hume intended to have summed up the evidence on the part of Joseph Clark; but the Lord Justice Clerk observed to that gentleman, that, though it was always with the highest satisfaction he heard him speak, there was no necessity for his offering any thing upon that occasion in favour of his client Clark, as nothing that came out in the proof tended in the smallest degree to criminate him, nor had the Solicitor General attempted to fix any charge of that nature upon him, in the course of his speech. The Jury were inclosed about ten o'clock, and this morning at ten returned their verdict, all in one voice, finding the libel, as to William Calder, not proven; finding William Donaldson, all in one voice, guilty; and, finding Joseph Clark, all in one voice, not guilty. The Court then pronounced an interlocutor, assailing simpliciter, and dismissing from the bar, Calder and Clark; and sentencing William Donaldson to be hanged in the Grassmarket of Edinburgh, on Wednesday the 10th day of May next.

Immediately after this business was finished, the Court proceeded on the trial of Charles Cocks, another soldier in the 31st regiment of foot, accused of breaking into the shop of David Bridges merchant, situated in the Luckenbooths of Edinburgh, in the night between the 29th and 30th days of January last, and stealing from thence several pieces of gold and silver lace, and other articles. The indictment likewise charged his having been concerned in breaking into the shop of Robert Murray, shoemaker in the head of the Canongate, in the night between the 24th and 25th of February last; but the Solicitor General restricted the libel, before the Jury was chosen, to the first-mentioned shop-breaking. This indictment was likewise laid against William Donaldson; but he having been convicted upon yesterday's trial, his name was struck out of it. There was no objection made to the relevancy of the libel by the pannel's counsel. The Court pronounced the usual interlocutor, finding it relevant to infer the pains of law, and after chusing the Jury, proceeded to the examination of witness against Cocks alone, which continued till about five o'clock in the afternoon. The Solicitor General summed up the evidence, on the part of his Majesty's Advocate, and Mr W. B. Macleod on the part of the pannel. The Jury were then inclosed, and this morning at nine o'clock, returned their verdict, all in one voice, finding the pannel guilty. Their Chancellor at the same time informed the Court, that they were equally unanimous in begging leave to recommend him to his Majesty's mercy. The Justice Clerk, however, desired the pannel not to be too confident in the success attending such an application. Sentence was then passed, in consequence of the verdict of the Jury, adjudging him to be executed in the Grassmarket of Edinburgh, on Wednesday the 24th of May next.—This unhappy young man is descended of a respectable and ancient family in England, and is himself the heir apparent of a landed estate in that country of 500 l. a year.

The brewers and maltsters in Haddington, we are informed, had a meeting on Tuesday night last, and unanimously agreed to apply to the Member for said burgh, to concur with such other Scots Members as may be instructed to oppose the new tax proposed upon each bushel of malt; and a letter was immediately signed and dispatched to that effect.

At a meeting of the Maltsters and Brewers of Glasgow, they unanimously agreed to apply, by letter, to Lord Frederick Campbell to use his influence, in obtaining for them an equal drawback with the English brewers upon all kinds of beer, in the intended additional malt-tax. And they having applied to the Magistrates for their good offices therein, the Lord Provost, by Wednesday night's post, transmitted their letter to Lord Frederick Campbell, and warmly recommended the same to his Lordship's patronage. The Brewers have also transmitted a duplicate of their letter to Andrew Stuart, Esq; member of Parliament for the county.

Yesterday afternoon a man fell from the top of a house in the New Town, and was killed on the spot.

Thursday evening, one Donald Currie, a boatman, unfortunately fell over-board from a gabot in the river Clyde, near Scotttown, (there being a high gale of wind at the time) and was drowned.

A letter from Port O'rient, to a merchant of Dublin, advises, that the want of sailors is so great at Brest, that there is not above one hundred able-bodied mariners in their largest ships of the line, the remainder of the crew being a medley of land-men, jail-birds, and galley-slaves; and that d'Estaing has declared, he never will set his foot on board the fleet, unless twelve ships of the line at least are properly manned.

By the Jenny, Walker, arrived at Liverpool from St. Kitts, we have advice of the arrival of the following ships from Clyde at the West Indies. Triton, Holmes, at St. Eustatia; Cornwallis, McKinlay; Fame, Fife; Friendship, Wilson; Jesse, Bell; Isabella, Graham; Christie, McCall; Flora, Cochrane, and Jenny, Dunlop, at St. Kitts.

FOR THE CALEDONIAN MERCURY.

A DIALOGUE to happen in the SHADES, between CHARLES P-X and MR. L-TT-L.

A TOLERABLE pleasant morning, but rather cool.—

Let me see—Half past Eleven; Charon, with his Boat, will be here presently. I shou'd imagine these March

Winds will blow over a good deal of Company.—Apropos, I hear the splashing of his Oar—Ay, faith, just as I said, a fine Boatfull!

CHARON.

Gentlemen, I wish you'd sit still; you'll be ashore in a few Seconds—You, Sir, with the Fat, if you don't keep your Seat, you'll overturn us.—Zounds, you are all so eager, one wou'd think Elysium was a Surecure in the Gift of a Prime Minister, and that I was loaded with hungry Patriots.

C. F.—X.

Leave prating, Fellow, and put us ashore with all Haste, and be damn'd t'ye!

CHARON.

Leave your Ill-manners, Master F.—x, if you please: It won't do here; you'll meet with some old Romans and Grecians that were always at a Word and a Blow, and they'll be as sharp upon ye as Master Adam was—I thought he had taught you how to behave yourself.—There, now you may get out, Gentlemen.—How they scramble thro' the Grove:—Mercy on us, these Mortals are such rash impetuous Creatures, I wonder the Gods will condescend to be plagued with them!

L.—L.

What, my old friend Charles! This is an unexpected Visit? What Enemy to English Patriotism sent thee hither? —another Duel, I suppose!

F.—X.

No such Matter; a cursed Fever, brought on by sitting up three Nights at Hazard, and getting drunk, upon a bad Run, with burnt Port, is the sole Cause of my Journey.—But, pray, what brought you here?

L.—L.

A violent Inflammation, that succeeded a Cold, caught by falling asleep with the Window open, as I was preparing an Impeachment against the Prime Minister.

F.—X.

Well, no Matter for what is past—How do you pass your time here?

L.—L.

Why, faith, pretty well. This Place is something like Bath; it seems a little strange at first, but it's pleasant enough when you are us'd to it.

F.—X.

Is it like Bath in any of its Customs?

L.—L.

In one particularly, that I think you'll approve. We wear no Swords; so you may be as rude as you please—at the expence only of a black Eye or a bloody Nose.

F.—X.

Do they box, then?

L.—L.

Like English Draymen:—There had like to have been a Match of that Sort upon this very Spot; I am just come from adjusting a Difference between Brutus and Marc Anthony.

F.—X.

What was the quarrel?

L.—L.

Why, in a Conversation, in mix'd Company, upon the Assassination of Julius Caesar, Anthony affirm'd it was a Step the more reprehensible in Brutus, as he was Caesar's Bastard. Brutus reply'd, that, without entering into the Question, Anthony did not behave like a Gentleman in using so coarse an Expression; therefore he found himself oblig'd to tell Anthony, he was an impudent Puppy.

F.—X.

Just like the House of Commons—How did it end?

L.—L.

Why, the Parties were half stripp'd, and just going to box it out—when Cicero stepp'd in, and with his usual Eloquence persuad'd Anthony to confess what he had said "was not meant personally"; whereupon Brutus assur'd Anthony, that he had no Antipathy to him "as a Man" and so they shook Hands and parted.

F.—X.

The House of Commons again, egad!

L.—L.

Exactly.

F.—X.

But pray, tell me,—what do you think of my Conduct in that Assembly?

L.—L.

Why, as we are by ourselves, we may speak Truth: I don't approve of it at all.

F.—X.

No!

L.—L.

No—not of my own either.—As for you, your Abilities were unquestionably such as might have graced a Patriot, devoted to and labouring for his Country's Honour and Advantage: But you used them as if you were only an envious Partizan, determin'd, at all Events, to exalt your Friends, and careless whether, in pulling down your Opponents, you pulled down the very Freedom, which you made the pretended Idol of your Devotions.

F.—X.

Do you think, then, I had no Principle?

L.—L.

Why, your Actions seem'd to declare as much. I need not remind you of the Petulance of your Behaviour on many Occasions, or of the Changes in your Conduct—which occasioned People to say, the only Consistency in your political Life was, that you were always very severe on your Enemies, and always determined—to get into Place.

F.—X.

If I was sometimes ill-natur'd, you must allow I was often witty.

L.—L.

My dear Friend, what you call Wit is but an ignis fatuus, a wandering Fire, that misleads the Judgment from its proper Course; that fixes the Attention on minute Things, while the grand Object of all Enquiry, Truth, is either not thought of, or at least neglected.—A Senator has nothing to do with Wit.

F.—X.

Faith, L.—L, I must do you the Justice to say, I never caught you offending against that Maxim. You know I was called to Account for my Satire by A—ms;—how do you think I behaved at our Meeting?

L.—L.

Very well—except that you ought not to have met him at all.

You jest!

F.—X.

L.—L.

Not I, indeed; I think you should have ston'd without fighting.

F.—X.

It was impossible. Among Men of strict Honour, nothing can be satisfactory after an Injury, but offering at a much greater.

L.—L.

Then you think, perhaps, too great a Licence, in a Parliamentary Debate, may be an Injury that ought not to be put up with.

F.—X.

Faith, yes; and I do think the Distinctions some People make, with Regard to the Satisfaction to be demanded, extremely ridiculous: In particular, that a Man should be accountable for Expressions used in Parliament only to Parliament, is a most absurd Idea; as if that, or any other large Assembly composed of jarring Interests, could feel, or be Judges of an Injury done to an Individual:—You might as well attempt to cure Lord Sandwich of the Scurvy, by physiccing the House of Lords.

L.—L.

Spoke like my old Acquaintance!

F.—X.

But now for your Opinion of your own Conduct—

L.—L.

Another Time, my dear Charles, if you please;—I see Paul Jones in the next Walk, and I want to enquire if there is any Thing from Holland.

F.—X.

Allons!

To the ARMY and NAVY, and the PUBLIC in general.

By the KING'S PATENT.

ANDREW'S New Invented POWDER, for cleaning Woolen Cloth of every kind and all colours.

THIS Powder is the most clean, as well as the most effectual composition ever yet discovered for cleaning Woolen Cloth; it instantly removes every kind of spot, even paint, although it may have been dried in for several weeks, without leaving the smallest trace behind. It is so easily used, that clothes which are only soiled, require very little trouble to clean them, and it is brushed out as readily as the dust after a day's wear. It being used dry does not make the cloth appear rough; but on the contrary, if the cloths are carefully brushed with the grain, they will be as smooth as when new. It is particularly recommended to the gentlemen of the army and navy, as it makes white and buff colored cloth and Kersey appear as beautiful as new; and will clean scarlet, blue, &c. to admiration. It is also recommended for the linings of carriages, &c.

THE COPARTNERSHIP between Messrs. GILBERT

JUDICIAL SALE.

HERE is to be SOLD, by authority of the Court of Session, upon Tuesday the 11th day of July next, betwixt the hours of four and eight o'clock afternoon, in the Parliament or New Session House of Edinburgh, before the Lord Ordinary on the hills, THE WHOLE SUBJECTS belonging to GEORGE CHALMERS of Pittencraff, merchant in Edinburgh, in the Lots following, viz.

L O T I.

The Lands and Barony of PITTCNCREIFF, in the county of Fife, situated about twelve miles from Edinburgh, with the adjoining lands of Moonthoole, Luscar, Drumthuill, Clune, and Goukhall; Also, the mills and mill-lands of Dunfermline, with sundry feu-duties, acres, and tenements in and about that town and abbey, with the growing timber and plantations on the foreshore lands, exclusive of the coal and ironstone, excepting as in the next lot.

The yearly free rental of the estates is £154 l. 18 s. 2 d.; and the proven value and up-set-price, including that of grown wood, and above 60 acres of plantations, with building ground in and around the town of Dunfermline, and some old buildings and areas is £1. 35s. 14 d.

L O T II.

The whole of the Coals and Iron-stone under the said lands, and the Coals under the lands of Wester Baldridge (excepting those under and 30 fathoms round the mansion-house thereof, and excepting about 230 Scots acres round the house of Pittencraff, and 10 acres round that of Clune, and also excepting the coals under the lands of Mountbough, which belong to Robert Wellwood of Garvock, Esq); with all usual privileges for working and transporting the coal and iron-stone, on payment of surface damages, and particularly with the power of making a main wagon-road through the lands, but restricted to a tract, as marked upon the plan of the estates, and with a power to communicate the use of the said road to the coaleries of Urquhart, Baldridge, and Balmule, in terms of an anterior contract made by Mr Chalmers and the respective proprietors, with an assignment also to the said contract respecting wagon-ways, and to all other contracts and agreements he or those from whom he derives right have made for coal-roads, the delivery of coals, or the communication of levels with the harbour of Brechin, coal-folds, ware-houses, and other buildings: Also, the adjoining farm of Wester Rosyth, containing 64 Scots acres or thereabouts, the proven rental of which farm, free of all deductions and land-tax is, £41 l. 13 s. 7 d.; together with the benefit of the tack of Windylaw, of which there are 28 years to run, and of the minister of Inverkeithing's glebe during his incumbency, both adjoining to Wester Rosyth.

The proven value of this lot, and at which it is to be set up, is as follows, viz.

The collieries,	L. 3000 0 0
Farm of Wester Rosyth,	1422 18 10
Windylaw and glebe-leaves,	100 0 0

Proven value of Lot II. L. 6532 18 10

The collieries contain inexhaustible quantities, and of the best qualities of the three great kinds of coal known in the island, viz. The Large open Scotch and Hartley kind, the Newcastle or Rich Running sort, and the Welsh or Stone kind without smoke, which sell for drying malt at about double price of other coals.

The two first sorts have water levels drawn up to them at a very great expence, which are capable of clearing many millions of tons. In some of the fields there are 7 fathoms already discovered, from 2 to 8 feet thick, at the depth of only 30 fathoms from the surface, and, in the opinion of the most skilful persons, no coals can be wrought and laid on the bank at less expence. The distance of the works from the harbour is from two and a half to four English miles, and the ground will admit of a convenient wagon-way. There is 18 feet water in ordinary spring tides in the harbour, and the depth may be increased by extending the pier, which has stone quarries just by it.

The surface of coal and iron-stone grounds, including the estate of Wester Baldridge, and some large feus, is 1000 acres, or thereabouts.

The estate is all divided into regular inclosures, and generally well sheltered with thriving wood. The mansion-house and adjoining lands situated near the old palace and abbey, command most agreeable and extensive prospects, and a winding rivulet which has steep-wooded banks, and many waterfalls, passes through the park; so that the situation is beautiful beyond description. The valued rent of the lands holding of the Crown is £594 l. 2 s. 8 d. Scots; those of Clune, Goukhall, and the town mills hold of subjects superior, and the entries are low taxed. There is a right to the tithes of the whole lands, excepting a few burgh acres which are valued, and the whole land-tax is uncommonly small.

The estates contain about 1200 Scots acres, the rental was much higher a few years ago, and a good part of the lands, being in grats and high condition, may soon advance again, and a considerable rise may be daily expected from the building ground in and around the populous manufacturing town (in which various new streets are going on), and from the working of the collieries, and other circumstances.

The house is a substantial convenient building of 10 rooms, with several bed-closets, and no value is put upon it, nor upon a complete and elegant set of new offices, pigeon-house, and garden-wall, which have cost above £2000. within these few years, nor upon the referred coal, iron-stone, and various free-stone quarries near the town. The up-set price of the lands and collieries are, at least, £5000. Sterling under what they have cost the proprietor, including the expence of the levels and large bridge of communication, for continuing the high street of Dunfermline into the lands; of this, those inclining to purchase may, if they please, see full evidence.

L O T III.

The inclosed Lands of HERMITAGE, with the tithes thereof, lying in the parish of South Leith, whereof two acres hold feu of the Earl of Moray, for payment of 6 d. yearly, and doubling it for an entry, and about 41 acres of the Trinity Hospital, for payment of £12 holl. 2 florins 3 pcks of barley, and 3 h. 3 d. Sterling, in money. The barley is payable in kind, or in the option of the vassal, by the star-prices of Mid Lothian, at Lammas old Mile yearly, after the respective crops. In ascertaining the value, it is computed at 22 s. 6 d. a-holl, which is supposed favourable for the purchasers, the entry, on the whole, for heirs, is taxed at 6 l. 5 s. only, and for singular successors, at a year's feu-duty. The superiors also pay the land-tax, and all public burdens. The lands are of excellent quality, and the situation very pleasant, and proper for villas and houses on the sides of the roads. This lot is to be exposed in the parcels, and at the proven values, and up-set prices, and subject to the feu-duties following, viz.

I. The large elegant and commodious Mansion-house and offices, with the gardens, barren timber, and two small grats inclosures, as possessed by the Countess of Fife, and containing about 8½ Scots acres, with some servitude on the adjoining lots. N. B. There is a good deal of barren timber, from 2 to 40 years old, on this parcel, with a very copious spring of water in the centre of the field, and there is a fruit-wall round the north and east sides of it, which, with the west wall and gate, have cost above £500.
